One things she loves about the industry:

I love connecting with the community, encounter peoples from all backgrounds and I love connecting and hearing their stories.

Lesson Learned:

You can't move mountains in a day. It's easy to get swept up and want change over night. The industry is still catching up and I'm proud of the small but mighty changes I've made. Laying the ground work now uplifts not only women in the industry, but the industry at-large.
